Small but powerful!

Glass cabinet lock allows for more view

Design elements made of glass are in great demand in the home area – und thus in the mobile world of living as well. Glass fronts in cupboards or kitchen superstructures have an effect as a bright eye-catcher which is spending light, they ease up the atmosphere and make a room look noble and more spacious. This spaciousness, however, is often destroyed by the use of handles, locks and closures.

Now FAWO, the system supplier and innovator with regard to technical interiors of caravans and mobile homes, has stuck to the essentials of this problem. A new glass cabinet lock named V-Lock presents itself in a minimalist and discreet way. Therefore, the delicately built handle button with a knob at the side does not clash with other design elements, harmonically adapts to its environment and thus does not interfere with the overall design picture.

It is true that this new lock with a diameter of only 20 millimetres is small, but it is not at all weak. For it presents itself as robust, has everything under control and keeps its promise: it firmly keeps close the glass pane without any compromises!
