The New SL has Arrived!!

The socket with screwless spring clip technology

No, we are not introducing the latest Mercedes. SL stands for the latest innovation by systems vendor FAWO for caravans and campers, that stands the test in terms of quality against its peers of the renowned auto brand.

The new product family SL is a comfortable addition to the small-sized electronic built-in system 10.000 by the renowned manufacturer INPROJAL. SL stands for screwless spring clip technology and describes the special benefits of the VDE/Kema-certified newcomer: this screwless connection technology enables quick and simple assembly within the mobile home world - also in more confined spaces.

Cable routing into the SL sockets is one-sided and rigid as well as flexible conduits can be used. This professional functionality is rounded off with appropriate design and large variety: The compact SLs with an installation depth of just 31.5 millimeters are also available as shockproof sockets in line with DIN 49440, grounded or as Belgian/French standard. Upon request, the socket can also be provided with child protection, flap lids and intermediate frames – in a virtually endless scope of colors, structures and surfaces.

as individual interior features that lend a personal note to mobile living.
