

Seven in one

Primero Comfort* – the new height-adjustable, single-column table series combines functionality and elegance like never before

In collaboration with the leading hardware manufacturer, Kesseböhmer, FAWO GmbH has further developed the proven single-column lifting platform, Primero, thereby creating a new model with seven versions that leave nothing to be desired in terms of functionality and operation.

With its elegant column cover, the Primero Comfort blends in harmoniously with the mobile living environment. Whether for easy entry into the seating area or for the individual seating experience, the table top can be freely moved – gently and without a sound. A double-sided lockable lever provides optimal stability in the selected position. If more short-term space is required, the table top can also be completely folded away to the side.

To lower, simply press the ergonomically designed release lever. The table is lowered with light pressure and without jerking and tilting. It does not matter whether the table is pushed in the middle or from the side.

The design concept has also been completely revised. The Primero Comfort model series is ready to deliver in seven versions. You can choose between models with a fixed or free-standing large base plate and floor protection ring. From the basic version with rigid column and shifting table top to the intermediate version with adjustable height and swivelling table top to the fully-equipped version with adjustable height and shifting table top, no wish is left unfulfilled. The silver-grey and anthracite colour schemes underline the sophisticated look of the innovative tables from the creative minds of FAWO.
